Hannah was an IRS worker who lived in a very old city. She was a very busy woman who woke up early and went to bed very late because of her work. And she has a tarantula

One afternoon while she was working on her computer, one of her co-workers stepped into her office. Hannah was very surprised, for she never really had visitors before. The co-worker's name was Feng. He asked her, "How come you never hosts parties?" Hannah winced at the question, because she thought of herself as 'busy', but Feng went on, " Everyone in the company wants to have a party, and they think you should hold the party because you've never held one before." Hannah was thinking, why me? But since everyone wanted her to host the party she guessed that she couldn't say no.

The following evening, on her way to the parking lot, Hannah spotted something glittering in the street lights. She decided to take a closer look. Making sure there was nobody around, she cautiously walked towards the mysterious glittery thing. As she got closer, she could make out something small and round. What could it be? Hannah thought. As she picked it up, she saw a penny with a golden rim. Must be a lucky penny! Hannah stashed it in her jacket pocket and got into her car, and drove back home. But what she didn't know was that it was tails up which means it is an unlucky penny

When she got into her house, Hannah brought it into her bedroom and she studied it for 4 hours.

She got so tired that, she fell asleep at her desk.

In the middle of the night, Hannah got robbed by someone named Shrimpy and he chucked the penny down the drain.

When Hannah woke up, she found that her lucky penny was gone!!!! She assumed that Shrimpy the smallest Criminal on Earth and, the worst criminal in town stole it. So she went outside to look for it. She you know I don't looked everywhere except the drain. Then she got this letter that said Hello! You no longer own this house because you did not pay your bills. Later that day she got a note that said "YOU ARE FIRED!!!!!! She started crying, and Feng got fired too.

Then Feng went to Hannah and said angrily, ““You did this”” and then Feng punched her in her stomach. Hannah was so mad she took off her shoe, and threw it at Feng, then they walk away from each other. That night, when she slept on the street, she planned to get her revenge.

Then turns she on the news and it said on the news that shrimpy was in jail. But the police had the unlucky penny and there was a riot in the cafeteria at the prison and during that riot shrimpy had escaped Hannah drops the penny heads up for good luck. The police track down shrimpy and they capture him and send them off into Maximum Security Prison. She goes to the hardware store and picks up a sledgehammer and destroy the penny with the sledgehammer
